

Andrew Smith, PhD
916-214-8560
arsmith@startmail.com

Practice Address:
3010 I Street
Sacramento, CA 95816

For the past 12 years Dr. Smith has been a UC Davis Assistant Clinical Professor of Family and Community Medicine. He taught in the San Joaquin General Hospital Family Medicine Residency Program in French Camp, California. Recently he left this position and is focusing on his private psychotherapy, coaching, and consulting practice, specializing in working with physicians. Dr. Smith graduated from California School of Professional Psychology in Alameda, California. He completed his postdoctoral training at Kaiser Permanente Medical Center in Santa Rosa, California. Dr. Smith has held various positions since this time, including as Associate/Training Director of the University of the Pacific Counseling Center and as a co-facilitator of Chemical Dependency Recovery services at Discovery Counseling Center in Danville, California. His main academic interests are trauma-informed care, social determinants of health, motivational interviewing, addiction medicine, and mindfulness-based treatment modalities.